The country at large was startled Tuesday morning to read in the press dispatches from Washington of the sudden demise of Associate Justice David Josiah Brewer of the United States Supreme court, who died at his residence in the Capital city of apoplexy, at 10:30 o'clock Monday night. Judge Brewer was born in Asia. He graduated from Yale University in 1856, and from the Albany (N. Y.) Law School in 1858. He received the degree of LL. D. from the University of Iowa in 1884, Washburn College 1888, Yale in 1901, University of Wisconsin 1900, Wesleyan University 1901, University of Vermont 1904. He was appointed to the Supreme Bench by President Benjamin Harrison to succeed Justice Stanley Matthews, taking his seat January 6, 1901. After his graduation from Albany Law School, in 1858, he studied law under his uncle, David Dudley Field, in New York, and later entered upon the practice of law at Leavenworth, Kansas. There he was made Commissioner of the United States Circuit Court in 1861, Judge of the Probate and Criminal Courts of Leavenworth county 1867-70 and Judge of the Kansas Supreme Court 1870-1884. He was lawyer, lecturer and linguist, and always popular as an after dinner speaker. He was also an author, among his works being "The Pen to the Pulpit," "The Twentieth Century from Another Viewpoint," and "The United States a Christian Nation."

The Winchester Democrat, which for twenty years has been successfully conducted by Biehn & Donovan, with the issue of Tuesday passed into the hands of its new owners, Tim Needham, formerly of the Williamstown Courier, and Robert Nelson, for several years past connected with the Government Printing office at Washington, Mr. Needham being the editor and Mr. Nelson business manager. We are glad to note also that Charles Lyddane, for several years editor of the Democrat under Biehn & Donovan's regime, is to be local editor under the new management. The Democrat is one of the best papers that comes to us in exchange and we congratulate the new proprietors upon its acquirement, and predict that they will hold it up to its high standard of excellence. The paper is fifty-two years old and enjoys a splendid patronage, especially since it became a semi-weekly.

All our subscribers are urgently requested not to overlook the matter of paying up arrearages and as much in advance as possible. We need the money to run the business and make improvements. Those who read THE HERALD weekly and are not subscribers are respectfully asked to become subscribers and help the good cause along.

Governor Willson signed the bill making capital punishment death by electrocution instead of hanging. The measure carries with it an appropriation of $7,000 to instal the necessary apparatus and goes into effect June 15 next.

J. T. Day left yesterday for Jackson, Tenn., Winchester and Mt. Sterling, at all of which places he has business to attend to. Mr. Howe, who leased the L. Park Hotel at Tarrant recently, is also manager of the J. T. Day store there, and as head salesman has a brother of J. T. Whaley, of our town, in charge. Mr. Whaley hails from Cynthiana, where he has been clerking for a long time, and is, therefore, experienced in the business. We do not know his front name.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21, 1910.
Dear Mr. Cooper: Enclosed find one dollar ($1.00) for renewal of THE HERALD. With best wishes,
Respectfully,
FRANK TRIMBLE.

Asa Ewing, the new man at the racket store, is a brother of Cliff Ewing, the stationary engineer and general utility man with machinery and saw mills. He has a wife and two children, who are expected here in a few days, and Mrs. Ewing will take charge of Mr. Day's Hazel Green Hotel while her husband runs the racket store. On behalf of the citizens we welcome this family to our midst and hope the ladies of our town will call upon and make Mrs. Ewing feel at home.

What is there in the art of fishing that makes the sport so destructive to man's voracity? Always the biggest fish get away.

How Deal With Opportunity.

Thou shalt not go about thy business looking like a bum; personal appearance is a good letter of recommendation.

Thou shalt not try to make excuses and rebuke those who chide thee.

Thou shalt not have to be told what to do.

Thou shalt not covet another fellow's job, nor his salary, nor the position which he has got through hard work.

Thou shalt not fail to maintain thine own integrity, or do anything that will lessen thine own self-respect.

Thou shalt not fail to live within thine own income.

Thou shalt not fail to blow thine own horn on the proper occasion.

Thou shalt not hesitate to say "No," when thou meanest "No."

Thou shalt give every man a square deal.

This is none like, but is the last and greatest, and there is none like unto it. Upon it hangs the whole law and profits of a successful business career.

If you look upon your college course as simply a means of raising your commercial value, it will not help you to real success. To have one's mentality stirred by the possession for expansion; to be dragged out of the narrow rut of ignorance; to feel one's life grow larger, wider and fuller—this is success.

One of the greatest questions a human being is called upon to decide is the choice of a career. It affects one's entire character and destiny. No graduate can afford to choose an occupation merely because there is money in it, but he must learn to look upon his vocation as only a means of making a living. He must learn that not living-making or fame-making, but man-making, woman-making, character-making, is necessary, as the blind Helen Keller is making here. The building of manhood and womanhood overtops position, wealth, vocation and titles, and is the most grand of all careers.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collected and Concisely Chronicled.

The contract for building a sewerage system of about ten miles, in Mt. Sterling, was let to Paul & Karshner, Dayton, Ohio, for $50,000. Bonds to pay for same were floated last January.

While sitting at a table with his back to an open grate, the dressing gown of C. W. Harris, former mayor of Mt. Sterling, became ignited, and before he could get the gown off was severely burned about the hips and shoulders.

A strong gas well was drilled in last week on Mrs. Agnes Rothwell's farm, in Menifee county. The gas was ignited and a flame eight or ten feet high lit up the country from Friday until Monday, when it was extinguished.

In a head on collision between two freight trains, on the L. & N. railroad near White's station, midway between Berea and Richmond, three men killed outright, one perhaps fatally scalded, and eight others more or less severely injured.

Seated alone by a grate fire in her daughter's home, in Louisville, Mrs. Elizabeth Dillard, aged 73 years, accidentally flounced her skirt into the fire and was at once enveloped in flames. She was literally roasted before aid could reach her.

Carlisle has been struck with a building boom. A large number of houses are under construction and many more are contracted for. The town treasurer in his annual report shows a balance of $300 in the treasury with no outstanding indebtedness.

The large stock barn of W. F. Byrd, near Mt. Sterling, was totally destroyed by fire last week. Six fine horses and a jack were cremated, and a lot of feed and farm implements were consumed. The building was owned by the Drake heirs, of Mt. Sterling.

Green R. Keller, the veteran editor of the Carlisle Mercury, has issued his annual proclamation announcing May 17 as "rat killing day" to be observed by the people of Nicholas county. On a similar occasion last year over 50,000 of the rodents were killed.

In a round-up of drunk and disorderlies at Williamstown last Sunday, Jailer Edmund Landrum was caught in the meshes and the police judge fined him $1 and costs. He refused to liquidate, turned the jail keys over to the sheriff, and was locked up. Later he repented and paid the bill.

While bending over a 200-gallon tank of gasoline, George Janka, an employee of a cleaning house, in Louisville, dropped sparks from his pipe into the tank and it exploded. Janka was badly burned, but, with remarkable nerve, first turned in a fire alarm, and then ran to a drug store. He will recover.

William McCullough and James Goins engaged in a street fight in Corbin and were arrested. When being taken to the lock-up Goins broke away from the officers and shot McCullough, killing him instantly. Lee Reid, a friend of McCullough, pulled his pistol and shot Goins, who died within an hour. Reid escaped.

The old Dr. Shirley residence in Winchester was razed last week to make room for the new government building. It was probably the oldest house in Winchester, as no one there can tell when it was built. Eighty years ago it was used as a hotel. In the course of demolition workmen unearthed an old almanac for the year 1825 in a good state of preservation.

A most unusual occurrence is reported from Glasgow in the following special: "While pruning his fruit trees Haden Keitner, of Adair county, found a large apple on the tree. The supposition is that the apple was grown last season and remained on the tree all winter, a most remarkable and singular occurrence, as apples grown in this section are kept with difficulty, if at all, and to hang on the tree all winter exposed and keep perfectly sound is almost beyond belief."

An interesting relic owned by the children of the late James Duncan, of Bourbon county, is a receipt for taxes for the year 1803. The receipt was issued to Capt. James Duncan, an officer in the revolutionary war, by John L. Hickman, clerk of the County court, and reads as follows: "To 622 acres of first rate land, valued at 62 1/2 cents per acre, $414; to 625 acres third rate land, valuation 16 7/10 per acre, 98; to 11 leveys each 25 cts., $2.75; to 12 slaves, valued at 12 1/2 cents each, $1.50; to 14 horses, valued at 4 cents each, 56 cents. A total of $9.98."

Is Prospering in the East.

Newark, N. J., March 28, '10.
Dear Mr. Cooper: Through the columns of the dear old HERALD I wish to express my deep sorrow at the death of Matilee Rose and Mrs. Clayton Center. Both were warm friends of mine and words I cannot find to express the shadow of sadness which falls around me at such unexpected news. Their relatives and friends have my deepest sympathy.

I am still in the east, and am prospering. Am now stenographer and bookkeeper for the Newark Rubber Manufacturing Co., of this city, a very large concern, and I feel that my success is assured. I have been with them all this year, and my salary is being continually increased, while my work is very light and hours from 9:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. with one and one half hours noon. I have made many eastern friends through the colleges, lodges, and churches with which I have been associated. I am still a Maccabee and have joined the Pocahontas order of this city. I am, therefore, better protected. I find the eastern people very, very sociable and kind. Our population is near 400,000 and we are well located. The salt air is very beneficial to me, and although the winter has been very severe, we are now enjoying glorious sunshine above the blue waters.

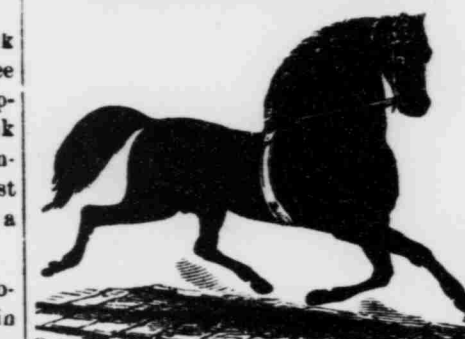

I will spend Easter in New York City as we are to have the greatest floral decorations the city has ever known. Much has been collected for this great day.

I have just returned from home, where I spent three weeks as mother was very ill. While there I made arrangements to invest my past and future salary in real estate of that little city, as its beauty so attracted me. So at last, my home will not be so far from old Kentucky, and when I return south in the fall I expect to make your dear vine clad hills and Hazel Green a visit.

With best wishes for yourself and Mrs. Cooper and regards to all my friends, especially the academy, I am, cordially yours,
ARTA LAKE DYE.

Now that spring has fairly opened would it not be proper for the town trustees to announce a day for the general cleaning up of the town?

SELIM.

This finely bred combined harness and saddle stallion will make the season of 1910 at my barn in Daysboro, at the low price of $5 TO INSURE LIVING COLT. Money due when the mare proves in foal, or bred to another horse or jack, or traded away, and a lien on the colt will be retained to secure service money.

SELIM is a dark chestnut sorrel, 16 hands 3 inches high, with white stockings on hind feet. He is 7 years old this spring. He was sired by Pat Washington, a celebrated saddle stallion of Fayette county, and out of a mare by Golden Chief, combined horse.

DEMPSEY.

This fine young jack will make the season at the same barn at $5 TO INSURE A LIVING COLT, on same conditions as those of the horse. DEMPSEY is a red sorrel, 14 hands 3 inches high, 4 years old August coming. He is out of a Black Mammoth jennet, and by Sam Brown's Red Dempsey. Breeders who have seen him pronounce him a model jack. All possible care taken to prevent accident, but I will not be responsible should any occur.
